

ONLINE RESEARCH

The emphasis is on useful online bases. In that respect, an important online resource is the official site of the European Union (<http://europa.eu/>).

The second important online basis is the Serbian national consortium KOBSON (<http://kobson.nb.rs/kobson.82.html>), to which we have access only through the University servers (hence, students cannot use it from their homes).

Of significance are also the search engines of several most important available services, such as Heinonline, Ebsco, Jstor, Oxford University Press.

Important is also the free online basis of the Social Science Research Network (<http://www.ssrn.com/>), from which students can download articles from their homes.

Students shall focus on researching various EU legal instruments, as well as the case law of the ECJ. Students shall be also familiar with the additional possibilities, such as, for example, EU bookshop, which offers numerous materials for free downloading.